

Colleague thoughts on Stronger Co-op, Stronger Communities – transcript

Adam Didcock, Store Manager, Llangennech

The ambition for the next five years is brilliant - fully behind it, can't wait to get the team involved as well and really emphasise the Co-op magic and what the future will be for us.

Jason Roseblade, Employee Relations Advisor, Bristol

The plan seems rather well thought out.

Martyn Drysdale, Regional Ops Mgr, Funeralcare

I think the biggest thing for me is the continuing message that we're evolving as an organisation and trying to be more inclusive of each other and working together because there's no doubt about it together we're stronger.

Abu Mustafa, Team Manager, Mile End

So, there's lots of things going on for one Co-op and developing one culture.

Bev Place, Member Pioneer, Rochdale

I just feel like I'm connected to an organisation that's got a real vision and moving forward in response to issues of our time.

Joe Kerr, Regional Manager, London

It's great to see the links between the problems that people face - citizens face - around money problems, debt problems, and the fact that we're going to work on some solutions that that can help people.

Cath Carroll, Team Manager, Green Quarter

Obviously the price cuts because we're going back now to being, more commercially viable that way. We're not known as 'Co-op: expensive store.'

Gary Roberts, Transport Mgr, Castlewood Depot

We're investing, and that will put us in a better place longer term and ultimately mean that Co-op's going to be around for a lot longer.

Reshma Kaur, Harrow Road

Co-op is putting a lot back into the community which is what it's all about: being one Co-op.
